Introduction

Riverview Hospital Association was organized by community leaders in 1912 to operate a local hospital and fill the health care needs of South Wood County and neighboring areas. Today Riverview Hospital Association remains one of the few independent, community-owned and operated health care providers in Wisconsin.

Through the years, Riverview has expanded both its facilities and service lines. A physician clinic was established on the campus in 1996, due to the need for additional primary care physicians in the area. Since then, two satellite clinics have been developed in the underserved areas of Nekoosa and Rome. In addition, specialty physicians have been added in neurology, oncology, psychiatry, and podiatry.

Recognizing the community need for cancer treatment close to home, Riverview established the UW Cancer Center Riverview in 2003. The center is affiliated with the University of Wisconsin Carbone Cancer Center thereby providing the Riverview communities with the resources of an internationally recognized, comprehensive cancer treatment program.

Responding to the unmet need of providing dental care to low-income families in the area, the Riverview Community Dental Clinic was started in 2009. Today the clinic is the only provider offering dental care to the residents of South Wood County who are covered by Medicaid and Badger Care.

Riverview continues to serve its mission of providing compassionate, affordable, state-of-the-art health care to its communities. Riverview's vision to remain locally owned and governed, retain competent and compassionate employees, be proactive in responding to the communities' needs, and enhancing community wellness ensures that residents will have their health care needs met both now and in future.

Methods

Wipfli's Role

In February 2013, Wipfli LLP (Wipfli) was engaged by leadership at Riverview Hospital Association (RHA) to facilitate the community health needs assessment (CHNA) process on behalf of the hospital. This CHNA report was completed in compliance with the IRS requirements described in section 501(r)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

CHNA Advisory Committee

The CHNA Advisory committee was formed by Leadership at RHA. The team was tasked with completing the objectives outlined by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) CHNA requirements. The team consisted of the following members:

- Celse Berard - President
- Richard Bailey MD, President of Medical Affairs
- Nan Taylor, Director of Business Development and Community Relations

Administrative Council

The RHA Administrative Council, along with the CHNA Advisory Council, was involved in the development of the implementation strategies. Members of the RHA Administrative Council are:

- Michael Bovee – VP of Finance
- Thomas Hunsberger – VP of Human Resources
- Peggy Ose – VP of Patient Services/Chief Nursing Officer
- Marj Tell – VP of Information Technology
- Lisa Rowe-Peplinski – VP of Quality Improvement

Community Served Determination

The service area for RHA was selected with input from the RHA CHNA Advisory Committee. The majority of RHA's patients originate from Wood County, while a small portion of patients originate from the city of Rome in Adams County. While RHA felt it was important to include Adams County in the service area and understand the unique needs of Adams County, RHA's outreach and Health improvement efforts will focus primarily on Wood County.

CHNA Process

The CHNA process that Wipfli utilized to conduct the assessment has been adopted from leading sources on the subject. These sources include:

- Association for Community Health Improvement
- Flex Monitoring Team

The following outline explains the process for conducting the CHNA. Each process is described in more detail throughout the report.

1. Formation of a CHNA advisory committee
2. Definition of the community served by the hospital facility
 - a. Demographics of the community
 - b. Existing health care facilities and resources
3. Data collection and analysis
 - a. Primary data
 - b. Secondary data
4. Identification and prioritization of community health needs and services to meet community health needs
5. Adoption of goals and implementation strategies to respond to prioritized needs in collaboration with community partners
6. Dissemination of priorities and implementation strategies to the public.

Primary Data Collection

Focus group discussions were conducted with each of the two major stakeholder groups within Wood and Adams County. These stakeholder groups included:

1. Health, social service, and local business agencies and
2. Riverview Hospital Association Department Directors and Administrative Council

The purpose of the focus group discussions was to gather information and opinions from persons who represent the broad interests of the community served, including persons with special knowledge or expertise in public health and persons who represent the medically underserved and vulnerable populations. For the focus groups, community stakeholders were identified by the RHA CHNA Advisory Committee. Stakeholders were contacted and asked to participate in the focus groups. A list of the stakeholder focus group participants can be found in Appendix 1. A list of questions that were posed during the focus group discussions can be found in Appendix 2. A summary of the primary data collection findings and priorities can be found in Appendix 3.

Secondary Data Collection

Secondary data was collected from a variety of local, county, and state sources to present a community profile, birth and death characteristics, access to health care, chronic diseases, social issues, and other demographic characteristics. Data was collected and presented at the county level and wherever possible, compared to the State of Wisconsin and the Nation.

The secondary data collected for this analysis was collected from the following sources:

- ESRI, 2012 (Based on US Census Data)
- County Health Rankings

Secondary data from several other relevant sources was also reviewed as part of the CHNA process. These sources included:

- Wood County Community Health Assessment, Wisconsin Department of Health Services, 2012
- Vital Signs – Measuring the Vitality of South Wood County, Central Wisconsin Economic Research Bureau, 2011
- Life in Wood County – Community Asset Survey, Community Foundation of South Wood County, Heart of Wisconsin Business and Economic Alliance, Marshfield Area Chamber of Commerce and Industry, Marshfield Area Community Foundation - Staab Construction Fund, Marshfield Area United Way, Mid-State Technical College, United Way of Inner Wisconsin, Wood County Social Services, 2006.

This report presents a summary that highlights the data findings, presents key priorities identified through the CHNA, and the RHA Board-approved implementation plan.

Information Gaps

There were no major gaps in information for this CHNA because quantitative information for demographic and health status were available at the county level. That said, to the extent that health status differs significantly by zip code within the county, health information was not available at that level of granularity. Specifically, the needs of Southern Wood County and Northern Adams County may differ from the overall data findings from Wood County and Adams County.

Community/Demographic Profile – Primary Data Results

Population

The population in Wood County is expected to grow by about 574 people over the next five years, while the population in Adams County is expected to decline slightly by 26 people. Wisconsin is expected to grow by 2.1%. Population is expected to increase nationally by over 3.5%.

Population by Age

Population was grouped into major age categories for comparison. In general, Wood County and Adams County have a slightly older population than Wisconsin and the Nation. The service area population is expected to stay relatively flat over the next five years. Health needs will also continue to shift toward disease categories that tend to present in older age.

2012 and 2017 Population Age Distribution

ESRI Business Information Solutions, 2012

Population by Race and Ethnicity

RHA's service area is predominantly white, equating to roughly 93-95% of the total population. This percentage is higher than the state of Wisconsin and the Nation as a whole. The numbers are not projected to change significantly by 2017 for either Wood County and Adams County.

Income

Income data was analyzed for Wood County and compared to the state of Wisconsin and the Nation. 2012 census data reveals that Median and Average household income for Wood County is lower than the State and Nation. Adams County has lower income levels than Wood County. Over the next five years, income levels are expected to rise in both counties in line with inflation.

Secondary Data Results

The County Health Rankings display health comparisons of nearly every county in the nation and what influences the health of a county. They measure four types of health factors: health behaviors, clinical care, social and economic, and physical environment. In turn, each of these factors is based on several measures. A subset of the major health rankings are analyzed in this report.

Overall, Wood County ranked #22 out of 72 Counties in Wisconsin for health outcomes based on the data collected by County Health Rankings. Adams County ranked #40.

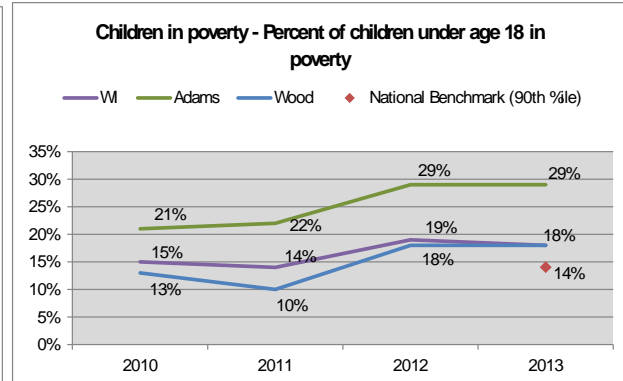

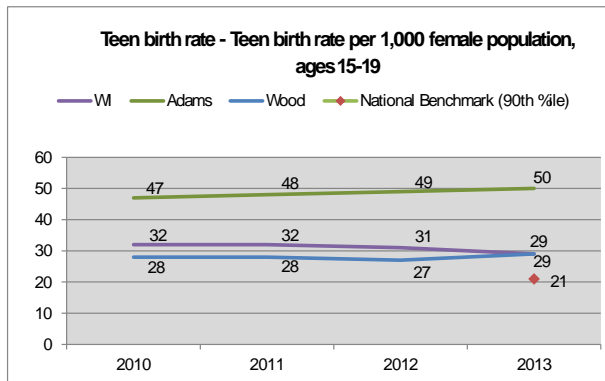

Birth Statistics

Rates of low birth weights in a community are often associated with poor health of the mothers. Low birth weights can lead to higher incidences of fetal mortality, inhibited growth and cognitive development, and chronic disease in later life. It is generally a predictor of newborn health and survival. Low birth weight percentages in Wood County are lower than in Wisconsin and Adams County, and in line with the national benchmark. Rates in Adams County are higher than both the state and the nation, with the rate remaining unchanged since 2010.

County Health Rankings, 2013

Teen birth rates were also analyzed for Wood and Adams Counties and compared to Wisconsin and the Nation. Teen birth rates in Adams County have been significantly higher than Wood County and Wisconsin. The counties and state have rates above the national benchmark. The percentage of children in poverty in Adams County is significantly higher than Wood County and Wisconsin. This trend has been increasing across both the counties and state, but flattening out in 2013. This is an important statistic as poverty among children can often be associated with many negative health consequences throughout childhood.

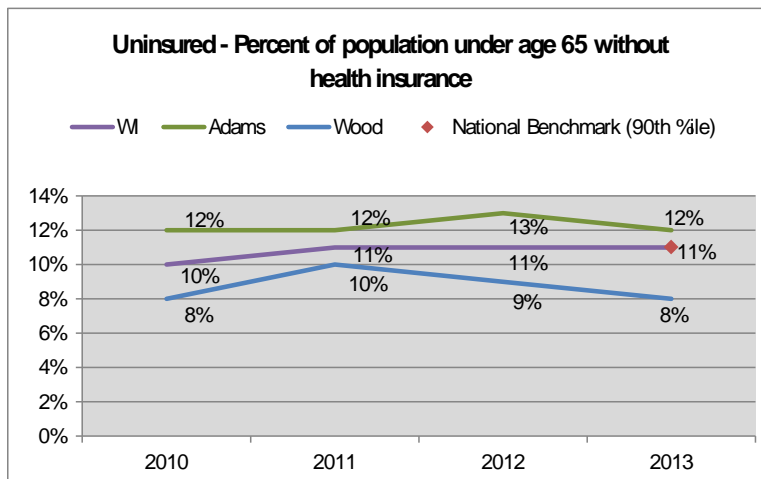

County Health Rankings, 2013

Insurance

Individuals without health insurance often forego care due to high cost, which can lead to a higher prevalence of chronic conditions.

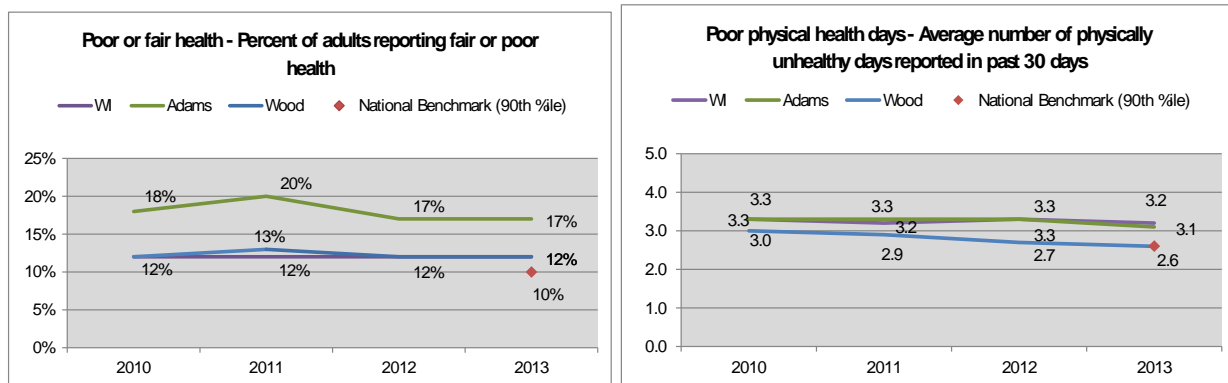

The goal of the Affordable Care Act, which should start to take effect in 2014, is to lower the rate of uninsured and thereby reduce the negative health consequences stemming from lack of affordable health insurance. The uninsured rate in Adams County is slightly higher than the national benchmark. Wood County's uninsured rate is extremely low, and has been dropping since 2011.

County Health Rankings, 2013

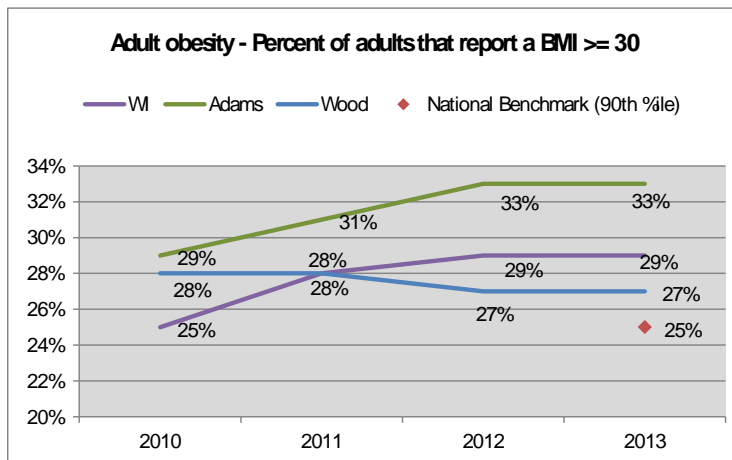

General Population Health

One measure of health within the community included in the County Health Rankings Nationwide study is reported general well-being. Reported health in Adams County was lower than Wood County and Wisconsin, which are just above the national benchmark. A similar self-reported measure is “poor physical health days,” which refer to days in which an individual does not feel well enough to perform daily physical tasks. Rates in Adams County and Wisconsin are slightly higher than Wood County, which is in line with the national benchmark.

County Health Rankings, 2013

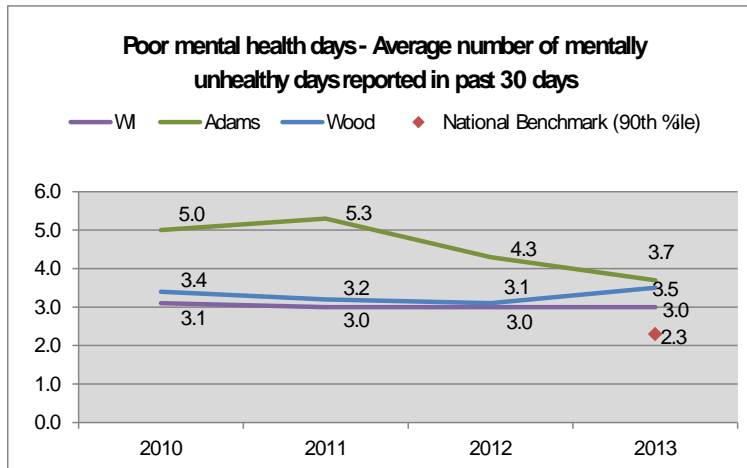

A third measure of general health of the population is the percentage of adult obesity. Nationally, the rate has been around 25% of the population. Rates in Adams County have increased significantly over the past three years to 33%, which is significantly above the national benchmark. Rates in Wood County are just above the national benchmark, while rates in Wisconsin have climbed to 29%. The health ramifications stemming from obesity are significant.

County Health Rankings, 2013

Another indicator, “Poor mental health days,” refers to the number of days in the previous 30 days when a person indicates their activities are limited due to mental health difficulties. The reported days in Adams County were historically higher than Wood County and Wisconsin, but have declined over the past two years. Mental health has come into the spotlight nationally as an area where continued focus and improvement efforts are warranted.

County Health Rankings, 2013

Adult Smoking

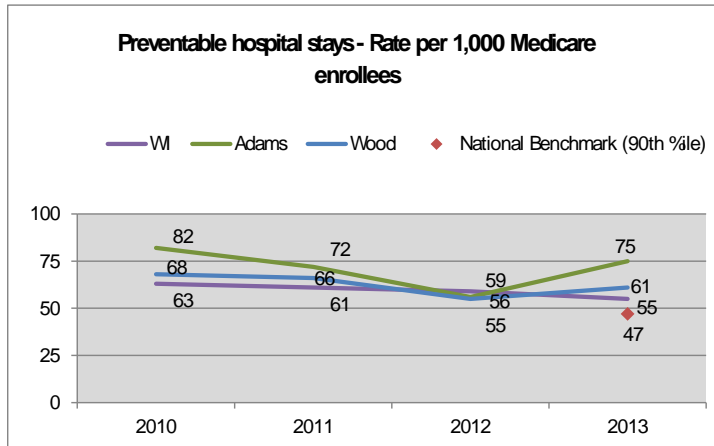

Cigarette smoking is identified as a cause of various cancers, cardiovascular disease, and respiratory conditions, as well as low birthweight and other adverse health outcomes. Measuring the prevalence of tobacco use in the population can alert communities to potential adverse health outcomes and can be valuable for assessing the need for cessation programs or the effectiveness of existing programs. The percentage of adults that report smoking in Adams County is significantly above Wood County and Wisconsin. All three are significantly above the national benchmark of 13%.

County Health Rankings, 2013

Preventable Hospital Stays

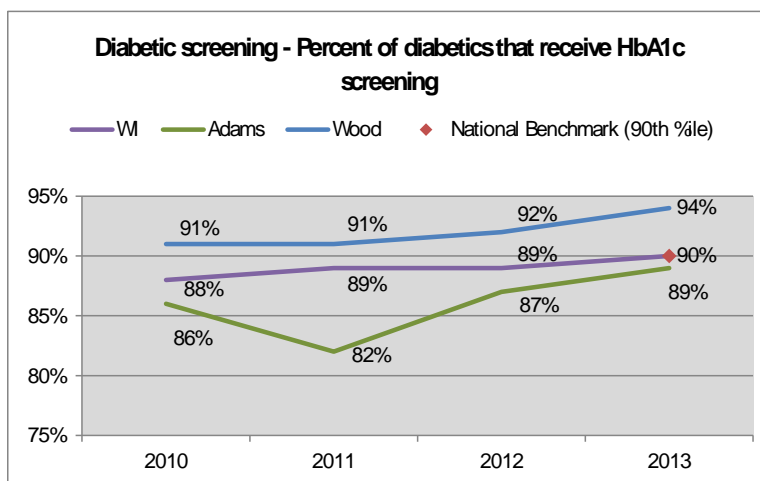

Hospitalization of Medicare Patients for diagnoses treatable in outpatient services may suggest that the care provided in the outpatient setting was less than ideal. The measure may also represent a tendency of the community to overuse hospitals as a main source of care. The rate in Wood County has been is currently 61 stays per 1,000 Medicare enrollees, compared to 55 in Wisconsin. Adams County has fluctuated but is trending higher over the past year.

County Health Rankings, 2013

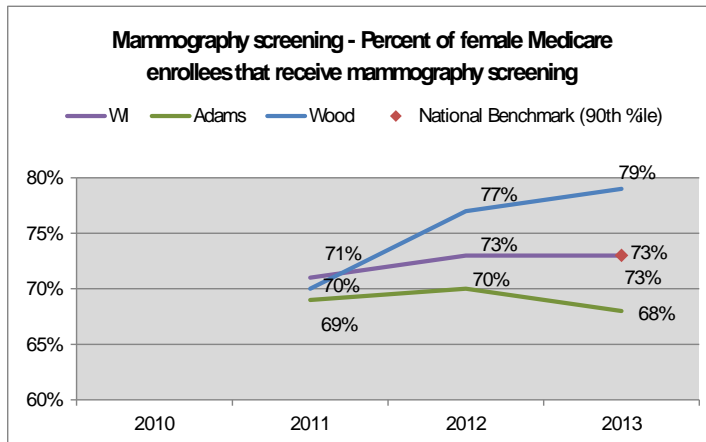

Screening

Diabetic screening records the percentage of diabetic Medicare enrollees that receive HbA1c screenings. Regular HbA1c screenings among diabetic patients is considered the standard of care. It helps assess the management of diabetes over the long term by providing an estimate of how well a patient has managed his or her blood sugar over the past two to three months. When high blood sugar, or hyperglycemia, is addressed and controlled, complications from diabetes can be delayed or prevented. Diabetes screening rates in Wood County are well above the national benchmark and have been steadily climbing. Rates in Adams County are lower than Wisconsin and the national benchmark, but have been increasing since 2011.

County Health Rankings, 2013

Mammography screening is the percent of female Medicare enrollees age 67-69 having at least one mammogram over a two-year period. Evidence suggests that mammography screening reduces breast cancer mortality, especially among older women. Mammography screening in Wood County is well above the national benchmark and has been climbing since 2011. Rates of screening in Adams County are lower than Wisconsin and the national benchmark, and have trended downward slightly over the past year.

Summary of Key Findings and Prioritized Needs

A list of organizations and individuals that participated in the community focus group session can be found in Appendix 1. The RHA Advisory Committee selected individuals with a wide range of backgrounds in service-related agencies and with health-related qualifications to participate in the focus groups. These individuals represent the broad interests of the community served by RHA. Collectively, they advocate on behalf of the medically underserved, low income, medically vulnerable and minority populations within the community through their organizations.

In April of 2013, focus group participants were asked a series of questions designed by Wipfli in conjunction with the Advisory Committee. These questions were developed from a variety of nationally accepted health improvement models and tailored by the Committee to uncover the health needs that may exist within the RHA community. A list of the questions can be found in Appendix 2. Responses were recorded and later condensed into common themes. The following issues were identified through the focus group process (in no particular order):

1. Dental Services for Low-Income Population
2. Mental Health Services, including Substance Abuse and Addiction Services
3. Health Care Literacy and Nutrition Education
4. Outreach to Minority Populations/Cultural Barriers
5. Serving the Needs of the Uninsured and Low Income Population

Wood County Health Department recently conducted a similar CHNA for 2013-2018. RHA has been an important partner in that process, and therefore it is not surprising that there are similarities in health priorities. Through the Health Department's CHNA, the following needs were prioritized:

1. Mental Health
2. Healthy Growth and Development
3. Chronic Disease Prevention and Management (this priority includes nutrition and physical activity).

The health needs were prioritized by the CHNA Advisory Committee and RHA Administrative Council members. The criteria used to prioritize the health needs can be found in Appendix 3. The criteria measures were established by Wipfli and the Committee, drawing from recommendations from the IRS.

Existing Health Care and other Facilities and Resources

A complete list of health care and other facilities and resources available within the community to meet the health needs including location, contact information, and description of services can be found in Appendix 4:

Implementation Plan

Once the health needs were prioritized by the CHNA Advisory Committee and RHA Administrative Council Members, the final step in the CHNA process involved developing an implementation strategy. The purpose of the implementation strategy is to develop a clear set of goals to respond to the priorities identified through the CHNA. The implementation strategy should include a written plan that addresses each of the community health needs identified through the CHNA, describe how the hospital plans to meet the health needs, and identify health needs the hospital does not intend to meet and why.

With the support of Wipfli, the CHNA Advisory Committee and Administrative Council developed the implementation strategy. The committee addressed the following implementation strategy components within each priority identified:

1. Objectives/Strategy
2. Tactics (How)
3. Programs/Resources to Commit
4. Impact of Programs/Resources on Health Need
5. Accountable Parties
6. Partnerships/Collaboration

The detailed implementation strategy for each priority can be found in Appendix 5. In summary, the following priorities were addressed through the implementation strategy:

1. Dental Services for Low-income Population
2. Mental Health Services, including Substance Abuse and Addiction Services
3. Serving the Needs of the Uninsured and Low Income Population.

The implementation strategy detail for each priority located in Appendix 5 provides supporting tactics, programs/resources, accountable parties, and potential partnerships/collaboration for each strategy.
